Sinclairville Free Library

Dear Friend of the Library,

Given the many challenges our library has faced this year, the Sinclairville Free Library is fortunate to have many supporters like you. We believe that you value your community and the services the library brings to this community, and we know that everyone has been hit hard emotionally and financially due to COVID-19. This year the library has not been able to do all the fund-raising it normally engages in. We hope that you will be able to give to the community's library a small donation to keep our services going. Please consider a gift this year in our library's annual appeal.

Your gifts help to strengthen the bonds the library develops within this community; between parents and children who read together, fishermen who tie flies together, book club members who review together, writers who share together, quilters who sew together, crafters who create together, and more. The library provides summer reading for children, a place for teens, adult cultural programs, free internet access, and thousands of books and videos.

There are no other resources in the community quite like the library. Anyone can belong, and everyone can help. And as the library costs increase, your contributions become ever more important.

This year your dollars have allowed the library to add services and equipment – which in turn helps with our activities.
