The Sinclairville Free Library is fortunate to have many supporters like you who value your community and the services the library provides. Your gifts help to strengthen the bonds the library develops within this community; between parents and children who read together, book club members who review together, preschoolers who play and learn together, writers who share together, quilters who sew together, crafters who create together, and more. The library provides summer reading for children, a place for teens, adult cultural programs, free internet access, and thousands of books and videos.
